

Inger A. E. Coll

Ms Coll holds a law degree from University of Oslo, Norway, and has since 1996 been working against economic crime. First as Secretary of the Norwegian Advisory Council on Bankruptcy, then as junior judge at Oslo Probate Court, and later as lawyer at Oslo Treasury Office.

She has also been a police superintendent in Oslo, and participated as a police trainee on a program focusing on financial investigation and asset forfeiture. For the last eight years she has been working as lawyer at the Tax Crime Unit in Oslo. She is currently appointed as Assistant Professor at the Norwegian Police University College

Ms Coll has received training both with the IRS and HMRC, and frequently lectures, both for police-, customs-, tax officials and lawyers in private practice both in Norway and abroad. She has been involved with the OECD Tax Academy in Rome since 2013, as an instructor for both the Foundation- and Intermediate programme. She also has published an article in Tax Justice Network Norway's publication "Skjult" ("Hidden").

Since 2012 she has been chair of The Norwegian Forum on Economic Crime, an interdisciplinary organization working against economic crime. Members include personell from police/prosecution, tax authorities, customs and anti-money laundering units in banks and insurance.

Her main focus areas in the work against economic and organized crime are different methods to ensure seizure of criminal assets, as effective means to restore and deter, and cooperation both inter-agency and internationally.
