blit. was founded in 2015 as a studio focused on creating visuals with immersive and interactive technologies, with the goal of becoming a leading reference in this field and making audiovisuals a meaningful and memorable experience. An experience that transcends conventional boundaries with a unique narrative that captivates, inspires, and engages the audience like never before.

Our insistence on the importance of narrative and the educational power of audiovisuals has led us, in a short time, to dive into cultural projects that go beyond mere entertainment and provide added value. Since 2019, we've been creating VR, AR, audiovisuals for domes, impossible screens, and even robotic screens; as well as installations for museums (such as Bicilab, Casa Ametller, or the MAC - Museum of Archaeology of Catalonia) and other public, private entities or foundations with the aim of spreading knowledge and contributing to innovation in the museum sector, introducing the latest technological developments into their exhibition spaces.

Our experience in this field has allowed us to collaborate with architecture studios, entities specializing in citizen participation, and to incorporate profiles into our team close to these areas.

We love stories and history, and we enjoy contributing our bit to the field of museology and museography, offering quality projects and human interaction with the entities we work with.
