

Connecting systems for

Timber construction

For 40 years, KNAPP has been committed to providing its customers with state-of-the-art assembly systems that are at the forefront of technology and innovation.

Simple and effective, our solutions stand out for their diversity and the numerous assembly options they offer, but also for their invisibility, the ease of assembly of the components, even on very large sections of wood, the possibility of combining them with other materials and their fire resistance.

All of our solutions for timber construction and engineering have European Technical Assessments (ETAs) and CE marking.
